Academic Affairs

Responsibility: Associate Dean, Academic, College of Engineering
Authorization: Student Academic Affairs Committee, College of Engineering
Approval Date: November 27, 2015
Amended: -

Revisions

Effective date of this policy: November 27, 2015

Purpose

The purpose of the Examination Accommodation Policy is to prescribe college-level requirements for deferred and supplemental final examinations, as governed by the University of Saskatchewan's Academic Courses Policy on Class Delivery, Examinations, and Assessment of Student Learning.

Authority and Responsibility

Under the Bylaws of Faculty Council, the Student Academic Affairs Committee, as well as its associated subcommittees, is granted the authority to establish adequate and appropriate policies pertaining to academic matters, as well as to ensure that undergraduate students are treated fairly and in accordance with established policies within the College of Engineering.

The Student Academic Affairs Committee is responsible for the enforcement of the policies and procedures prescribed in the Examination Accommodation Policy. The Student Academic Affairs Committee, College of Engineering, delegates to the Associate Dean Academic authority to review and subsequently approve or deny a student's request to write a deferred or supplemental final examination. The Associate Dean Academic reserves the right to refer such applications to the same committee.

The Student Academic Affairs Committee is responsible for ensuring the Examination Accommodation Policy is reviewed and/or revised every three years. Any revisions are to be notated within the document (under the "Revisions" heading). Unless revised, the existing policy remains in effect.

Principles

The principles upon which applications for deferred and supplemental final examinations ("examination accommodation") are assessed will be:

Consistency and Fairness: It is the College's duty to assess all applications for examination accommodation in a fair and consistent manner that is compliant with both College of Engineering and University of Saskatchewan policies.

Reasonableness: It is the student's duty to demonstrate reasonable grounds in an application for examination accommodation.

Due Process: Decisions will be made on the basis of the student's application letter, prior history of applications, accompanying medical or other documentation, and feedback from the instructor.

Scope of this Policy

All undergraduate students registered in the College of Engineering within the University of Saskatchewan are subject to the provisions detailed in the Examination Accommodation Policy. This policy is in reference to final examinations only.

The Examination Accommodation Policy is governed by university-level regulations detailed in the Academic Courses: Class Delivery, Examinations, and Assessment of Student Learning policy. In the event an actual or perceived discrepancy occurs between university and college-level policies, procedures, or processes pertaining to examination accommodation as defined in this document, university-level provisions supersede and prevail.

Policy

I. DEFERRED FINAL EXAMINATIONS

A student who is absent from a final examination through no fault of their own, for medical, compassionate or other valid reasons, may apply to the College of Engineering for a deferred final examination.

Aside from exceptional circumstances, students may not apply for a deferred final examination if they were present for 50% or more of the time allotted for their final examination.

i. Reasonable Grounds

Reasonable grounds for an application include:

- Medical: A College-Level Medical Certificate or other supporting documentation from the student's health care provider confirming a condition of an acute medical, psychological, counselling or like nature is required. In the event that the application is related to a chronic condition, the student must provide evidence of continued medical care. Unsubstantiated claims of illness will not be accepted.
- Compassion: A letter is required from the student detailing the extenuating circumstance(s) under which it is reasonable to apply for a deferred final examination. For example, the illness or death of a family member or similar extenuating circumstances may be considered reasonable in the application for a deferred final examination. Supporting documentation is required.

Students may experience events that are neither medical nor compassionate in nature, but may nonetheless be reasonable grounds upon which to apply for a deferred final examination. In this event, students are expected to provide a full and detailed account as to the basis and reasonableness of their application for a deferred final examination.

Falsifying information on an application for examination accommodation will be referred to the Academic Misconduct and Appeals Committee.

ii. Process

Applications for deferred final examinations must include (Appendix A):

- A letter under the student's signature outlining the reasons for the application
- A College-Level Application for a Deferred Final Examination Form
- If applying under medical reasons, a College-Level Medical Certificate
- If applying under compassionate grounds, supporting documentation
- Consultation with Instructor Form

Applications must be received within three business days of the missed final examination. Applications will be reviewed within five business days from the date of receipt, and the student shall be duly notified within that time period as to the status of their application.

The College of Engineering conforms to all examination dates and schedules set by the University of Saskatchewan Registrar. Students are expected to avoid making prior travel, employment, or other commitments for the entire examination period during which they expect to write.

iii. Special Deferred Final Examinations

A student who is absent from a deferred final examination through no fault of their own, for medical, compassionate or other valid reasons, may apply to the College of Engineering for a special deferred final examination.

With the exception of the examination period, the process for applying and the criteria for assessment are the same as for deferred final examinations.

Special deferred final examinations are not written during a specified examination period. Barring exceptional circumstances, special deferred final examinations are expected to be written within one month of the missed deferred final examination.

Special deferred final examinations are scheduled at a time and day that is mutually convenient for both instructor and student. The instructor is normally asked to invigilate the examination. In the event that the instructor is unable to invigilate the examination, alternate arrangements can be made with the Examinations Office or with the Engineering Student Centre.

The Engineering Student Centre will facilitate all logistics associated with scheduling special deferred final examinations.

II. SUPPLEMENTAL FINAL EXAMINATIONS

Any student who is otherwise eligible to graduate and who fails a class in their graduating year may apply for a supplemental final examination for that class, provided that a final examination was held in that class. Under exceptional circumstances, students who receive a Faculty Action in their graduating year may apply for a supplemental final examination, even if no class was failed.

Up to two supplemental final examinations may be granted to enable a student to complete the requirements for graduation, and they shall be accorded the same weight as the original final examination in the computation of the student's final grade.

i. Conditions

If the application for a supplemental final examination is subsequent to having failed a class, students must have received a final grade between 40% and 49% in the class for which a supplemental final examination is being requested.

If the application for a supplemental final examination is subsequent to having received a Faculty Action, students must have a sessional weighted average 58% or above in that year.

ii. Process

Applications for supplemental final examinations must include a College-Level Application for a Supplemental Final Examination Form (Appendix B). Students are encouraged to speak with their instructor(s) prior to submitting their application for a supplemental final examination.

Students may apply at the end of the final term of their graduation year. Applications must be received within three weeks of the end of the examination period.

Applications will be reviewed within five business days from the date of receipt, and the student shall be duly notified within that time period as to the status of their application.

The College of Engineering conforms to all examination dates and schedules set by the University of Saskatchewan Registrar. Students are expected to avoid making prior travel, employment, or other commitments for the entire examination period during which they expect to write.

iii. Special Supplemental Final Examinations

A student who is absent from a supplemental final examination through no fault of their own, for medical, compassionate or other valid reasons, may apply to the College of Engineering for a special supplemental final examination.

With the exception of the examination period, the process for applying and the criteria for assessment are the same as for supplemental final examinations.

Special supplemental final examinations are not written during a specified examination period. Barring exceptional circumstances, special supplemental final examinations are expected to be written within one month of the missed supplemental final examination.

Special supplemental final examinations are scheduled at a time and day that is mutually convenient for both instructor and student. The instructor is normally asked to invigilate the examination. In the event that the instructor is unable to invigilate the examination, alternate arrangements can be made with the Examinations Office or with the Engineering Student Centre.

The Engineering Student Centre will facilitate all logistics associated with scheduling special supplemental final examinations.

III. STUDENT APPEALS PERTAINING TO EXAMINATION ACCOMMODATION

Any student may appeal the denial of their application for examination accommodation, as defined in this document. Such an appeal can only be based upon bias, discrimination, or procedural error. It is the student's responsibility to submit such an appeal in writing, accompanied by supporting documentation, within ten business days of being notified of the denial.

An appeal of a decision made by the Associate Dean, Academic shall be referred to the Student Academic Affairs Committee. In this case, someone other than the Associate Dean, Academic will be appointed to chair the appeal hearing. An appeal of a decision made by the Student Academic Affairs Committee shall be referred to the Academic Misconduct and Appeals Committee. In either case, appeals will proceed at the discretion of the Dean, College of Engineering.

College-Level Process for a Deferred Final Examination

A student who is absent from a final examination through no fault of his or her own, for medical, compassionate, or other valid reasons, may apply to the College of Engineering for a deferred final examination. It is the student's responsibility to ensure the outlined processes are followed and that all documentation is received by the College of Engineering within three (3) business days of the missed final examination.

College-level applications for deferred final examinations will be reviewed by the Associate Dean, Academic. Decisions will be made on the basis of the student's letter, prior history of deferred final examination applications, accompanying documentation, and feedback from the instructor.
