

General Statement about Admissions for International Students

In addition to academic requirements for admission to any program, an applicant's personal qualifications, references, etc. will be considered in the admission procedure. For a student to be admitted to St. Andrew's College, the College must be satisfied of their academic, vocational and psychological fitness, and that their financial means are adequate.

The College may place a student on probation or, if warranted, may discontinue a student for any of these reasons. In the case of students in the candidacy process for ministry, such actions will be taken only in full consultation with appropriate courts of the church.
