Mr./Ms. ______________________________ has applied for residence in St. Andrew's College Residence, and has given your name as a reference. Our "co-educational community" pattern of residence life, which includes involvement in group activities, is intended to add an extra dimension to the University education of those who share in it. Therefore, we want to give preference to students who are prepared to participate in the community in a friendly and responsible way. This is not meant to exclude students who are shy or for any other reason need the experience of living with a larger group.

In light of these considerations, would you kindly respond to the following questions?

1. Do you feel that the applicant would profit by admission to Residence, and if so, how?

2. Does the applicant have gifts that he/she could be encouraged to use to contribute to Residence life?

3. Has the applicant, to the best of your knowledge, given evidence in the past of traits of character (eg. irresponsibility, dishonesty, selfish indifference to others' feelings or needs) that would constitute a problem were he/she admitted?
4. How would you briefly describe his/her personality?

5. Would you recommend his/her admission to St. Andrew's College Residence?
